Please answer the following questions to the best of your ability. Your responses will help us to understand how you evaluate online articles that provide scientific evidence.

Will my responses be graded?

No. Your responses will be used by our research team to understand how you think critically about science.

Will my results be confidential?

The professors and researchers on our team will compile your responses for our project; no one outside of our team will have access to your responses.

You may answer the questions in any order, and you may change your responses at any time.

If you encounter problems or have questions while you are completing this pre-assessment, please raise your hand and a member of the research team will assist you.
